Did you know?

At Scotland's homecoming in 2008 MAY was designated the official whisky month with a month long celebration of the famous national drink—Scotch whisky. May 21st is THE day.

Named uisge beatha in Gaelic, the 'water of life', it has been produced in Scotland for generations. There are so many reasons why whisky should be celebrated, but who needs a reason? So pour yourself a dram, visit a distillery or find a whisky-themed event.

SASMM Snippets:

The Bylaws list the third purpose of the Society as: Encourage and support Scottish events. From Burns suppers to Tartan Balls to Festivals, our sister organizations offer many opportunities to live the Scottish life without the hassle of international travel!

It's Celtic Festival Season!

Time for heavy athletics, pipe bands, dancing, music, shopping, and more!

Check the calendar!
